

THE COMMUNITY-BASED PHD

Complexities and Triumphs of Conducting CBPR

EDITED BY

SONYA ATALAY AND ALEXANDRA MCCLEARY

THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA PRESS
TUCSON

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction ALEXANDRA MCCLEARY AND SONYA ATALAY	3
PART I. MANAGING INSTITUTIONAL EXPECTATIONS
1. Queering Community-Based Participatory Research ELIAS CAPELLO	13
2. Rethinking “Giving Back”: Incorporating Community Work in Academia SAMANTHA CORNELIUS	32
3. Contra-Research: Navigating the Paradoxes of Funding Community-Based Projects CECILIA I. VASQUEZ	43
4. A Few More Cups of Coffee: Beginning Community-Engaged Research and Seeing It Through R. NEIL GREENE	51
5. Developing Partnerships along the Collaborative Continuum: PhD Experiences with Community-Oriented Archaeology in Canada CHELSEA H. MELOCHE, KATHERINE L. NICHOLS, AND ERIC SIMONS	60

PART II. MULTIVOCALITY IN COMMUNITIES

6. Facing the Unexpected: Allures, Anxieties, and Faults of Investigating Community Participation in Massaciuccoli Romana (Italy) 77
FRANCESCO RIPANTI
7. Listening to Traditions at the Arboretum Chinese Quarters 91
CHRISTOPHER B. LOWMAN
AND GERALDINE LOW-SABADO
8. Risk Mitigation in Community-Based Archaeological Projects: The Importance of Power Sharing in the Spirit of Reciprocity 104
ALEXANDRA MCCLEARY
9. Nānā ka Maka; Ho'olohe ka Pepeiao; Pa'a ka Waha: Decentering the Self, Recentering the Community 117
D. KALANI HEINZ

PART III. BUILDING RELATIONSHIPS

10. Collaborating for First Foods: Supporting the Shoalwater Bay Indian Tribe through Archaeological Research 133
ANNA S. ANTONIOU AND EARL DAVIS
11. Step-by-Step Process of Community-Based Participatory Research (CBPR) Projects for Graduate Students: Lessons from Engaging with CBPR in Interdisciplinary Counselor Education 149
TANUPREET SURI AND ARIANNA TROTT
12. Establishing Long-Term Relationships for Collaborative Ethnographic Research 161
CASSIE LYNN SMITH
13. Centering Relationships in the Dissertation: Conducting Participatory Action Research as a Way to Build Relationships Outside of the Academy 178
AMY ARGENAL
14. Using Protocols to Guide Community-Based Research: A Personal Journey 192
JULIE WOODS

PART IV. LETTING COMMUNITIES TRULY LEAD

15. Graduate Research Serving Apsáalooke Communities 203
JOHN DOYLE, CHRISTINE MARTIN, SARA L. YOUNG, MYRA J. LEFTHAND, EMERY THREE IRONS, MARGARET J. EGGERS

16.	The Significance of Predissertation Field Seasons in Community-Based Participatory Research	212
	VICTORIA BOCHNIAK
17.	The Messy Reality of a Community-Based PhD: Disassembling Archaeological Practice with and for the Ngarrindjeri Nation	223
	KELLY D. WILTSHIRE
18.	Indigenizing Academic Minds to Work with Community: A Joint Reflection on the Everyday Work of Building Good Research Relationships	237
	NUNANTA (IRIS SIWALLACE), NICOLE KAECHELE, AND EMILY JEAN LEISCHNER
19.	Collaboration and Sensitivity: Working with Tribal Historic Preservation Officers in Southern New England	253
	ALEXANDRA G. MARTIN
PART V. HOLDING DIFFERENT ROLES
20.	From THPO to PhD: Indigenous Archaeologies, Shifting Social Positioning, and the Gray Space Between Emic and Etic Approaches	267
	BONNIE NEWSOM
21.	Queens Speak: A Youth Participatory Action Research Project Exploring Critical Posttraumatic Growth Among Young People and Myself	281
	STACEY MICHELLE CHIMIMBA AULT
22.	Taniuki (Our Language) Project: Community-Based Participatory Active Research (CBPAR) in Language Revitalization	295
	CYNDY MARGARITA GARCÍA-WEYANDT
23.	Balancing Expectations and Obligations: Finding Your Way in Community-Based Archaeology	314
	ELENA SESMA
PART VI. ENSURING ROBUSTICITY OF RESEARCH WITHIN COMMUNITY-BASED PARTICIPATORY RESEARCH METHODS
24.	Pushing for Participation: Understanding Facilitators and Barriers to Incorporating the Tenets of Community-Based Participatory Research into Every Step of the Doctoral Dissertation Process	329
	MEGAN BUTLER
25.	My Interpretation in Change: Giving Back to Indigenous Communities in Two Different Contexts	345
	REIDUNN H. NYGÅRD

26.	Field Notes from Engaged Research	358
	ANNIE DANIS
27.	Lessons and Observations from Engaging in CBPR as a Graduate Student in a STEM Discipline	367
	ASHLEY COLLIER-OXANDALE
28.	Managing Emotion in Community-Based Archaeological Practice	380
	CLAIRE NOVOTNY
	Conclusion. Complexities, Triumphs, Missteps, and Joys of Conducting Community-Based PhD Research: What We Learn from Graduate Student Experiences	395
	SONYA ATALAY
	Contributors	413
	Index	421